Description

When copying an issue, you can select the following behaviors:

1. whether to make a relation between source and destination issues
2. whether to copy attachments

And the former has a setting to set the default behavior (#18500). However, the latter does not.

I think it should also be possible to configure the default behavior whether to copy attachments or not.

I think it's a great way if you don't want to copy attachments.
I created a patch and attached it.
