Description

Allowing the user to exclude private comments from the PDF export would make it possible for us to use this function when communicating with the customer.
This could be as simple as a "checkbox" selecting "Include private issues". The default should probably be false or configurable. This in order to reduce the risk of accidental disclosure of private comments.

I agree this would be a good feature to add.

In the meantime, a workaround can be creating a "reporting account" whithout privileges to see private notes and export to PDF from there.
