Description
The maximum count of the columns in the RedmineTimelogReport is 100. But there isn't any message about it. So, a user may make a mistake during a time control if a number of time steps exceeds 100. Steps to reproduce: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. go to the Report2. choose "Date range: all": SearchTimelog.png3. choose "Details: days": TimeLogReport.png4. choose "Add: Project" Despite the projects in Redmine have more than 100 active days, the number of day columns will be 100 and the Total in the bottom row will be insufficient. I suppose, that the relevant message about 100-limit is needed.

I can confirm that the limit is still present in Redmine 3.3.1.stable without a warning message.
The limit is both at the web page and in the exported CSV.
