Description
It should be possible to select multiple subproject for which you don't want issues in the list. That is besides currently existing is, all, none there also needs to be is not. This can not be achieved by selecting multiple projects except specific ones with is filter because new subprojects could be added.

We are interested too in having the "is not" option available for subproject filter. Attached is a patch that implements this.

As a technical note, I changed in the existing implementation the "each(&.to_i)" to "map(&.to_i)" because the each method returns the same initial array (with project ids as strings), while the map method returns a new array (with the project ids casted to integers).

- Target version set to 3.4.0

It works fine for me and passed all tests. I think it is natural to have this feature.
Setting target version to 3.4.0.

Thank you for writing this patch so fast.
