

Redmine - Patch #16381

Extract code to render project context links to helper

Description

The attached patch is against trunk r12982.

Currently the logic to determine which links to show in the project view (app/views/projects/index.html.erb) is in the view itself. The current paradigm assumes the activity link always being shown. However if one wanted to hide that, or disable it (#1543), there is an extra separator left.

This patch will join the array of permissioned links with the separator in the projects helper; and return the html to render.
