Description
Hey, I found that there is an inconsistency in the authorization to see issues. I use Redmine as a Project Management Tool for 4 years, and now I am setting up a new project for providing support too. On this support project, I expect anyone can create requests and see the requests they created or that are assigned to him only, not the other guys support requests. I configured the project as "Public", created a "Casual Customer" role with Issues Visibility set to "Issues created by or assigned to the user". I assigned this role to the "Non-members" users of this project, in the project's Members configuration tab. After doing this, the non-members users are allowed to see each other issues in the Activity and Issues tabs, however when clicking on one of these unallowed issues to see its detail, a 403 error is triggered. Here is a video of the situation: https://youtu.be/7aHFglhjlKo I already disabled all other plugins and restarted. Also, I am attaching a screenshot of my Redmine information page.

History

#1 - 2016-03-02 18:04 - Toshi MARUYAMA

- Status changed from New to Needs feedback

I cannot reproduce on 3.1.3.

I think your "Non member" and "Anonymous" roles have "View issues" permission.

#2 - 2016-03-17 08:06 - Jonathan Vargas

Yes, they have that permission enabled. If I disable it, they won't see any issue, including those ones created by or assigned to themselves.

Is that the expected behaviour?

How can I effectively hide the issues in the listings (Issue List & Activity panels), and only allow these users to see issues created by or assigned to them?

#3 - 2016-04-15 10:27 - Toshi MARUYAMA

I still cannot reproduce.
