Description With due respect and humbleness I request an additional data field for the plugin directory elements providing license information for the plugin in question. (see #18664) Since maintaining the plugin directory (see #17689 and #19882) seems to be a task necessary not only for newly registered plugins but for well-established ones as well and more so a task not performed that often - some (if not all) plugins developed/maintained by redmineCRM or easyRedmine are mostly commercial and demand registration for even the "free" light versions - the information should have to be provided by the plugin maintainer and being able to be used as filter.
