Description I love the watch-feature. I use it all the time, for all kinds of reasons: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Issues that i want to talk to the reporter• Patches i consider adding to my stack• Good examples of issues to show other• Issues to keep track off (i suppose original usage). My problem? Well, memory isnt what it once was (or was it ever). I have some pages of watched issues, but some of them i am not sure why i watched. Less problem here on redmine.org, more i clients installations where they often are part of feedback to give (but in person, not as comment). Would it be possible to add a personal comment as well when tagging an issue with watch? And attach that to watch-emails? Is this interesting enough for others? /T
