

Redmine - Patch #2779

RSS-link should be visible even though no issues where found

Description
Sometimes we create saved filters to trap specific conditions like overdue issues. With a RSS/Atom reader it's very easy to read that filter now and then, and act if issues are found. We do not however want to pollute our production database with test-issues to be able to see the RSS-icon in bottom right corner, so we patched /app/views/issues/index.rhtml to show the icon even if no issues where found. I would not mind this in the main release, it should do no harm. /T

I don't use Redmine's feeds but I could see that being annoying.

#2 - 2009-02-19 23:29 - Mischa The Evil

This was one of the smaller issues I had on my ever-lasting todo-list to patch since I'm an heavy feed-user...

I wish I had moved it up the list much earlier knowing that the improvement is made with such a patch... Great!

Mischa, you probably spent more time keeping that item on your todo list than I did fixing it :) Maybe you should share your todo list and we can see what else we can fix.
