Remove unnecessary bgl and bgr wrappers from the footer

Description
There is a footer container, which has 2 more containers inside named bgl and bgr, considering that footer has nothing in it, but a short line of text, and I don't think we will ever need anything else from the footer, than just displaying this line, I think they both should be killed and text that's contained by it to be instead wrapped directly by a #footer div.

I think that this change will, without further action, become problematic for the redmine.org instance:
