This has been the case for many years in fact.

I once started work on this, fixed it but never got to posting the polished patch.

I am willing to see if I can look up this branch if there really is interest in fixing this issue given that this hasn't been reported for so long.

To be honest, I think it is better to drop OpenID support than fixing this issue. In my observation, OpenID is getting obsolete. Many services have stopped being an OpenID provider.

I agree with you.

I don't think that this low priority issue alone justifies dropping OpenID support in Redmine altogether. I think that is something that should be discussed in a separate, dedicated issue.

The OpenID support has been dropped by #35755 for the upcoming Redmine 5.0.0.
