Description I like the new features that include sub projects. It would be good to display the sub project name wherever this feature is used like in the calendar or grantt or the issue list. this helps when some of the sub projects happen to have the same subject or similar.

Project name is only displayed for issues that belong to a subproject of the currently browsed project.

very nice

thanks for the quick responce.

Since i noticed how you did that i made the project name to appear on the subject column like project - subject
I also noticed that in the gantt the first column where the name of the task is being displayed the name gets cut off if its large. can that column adjust to the size of the names?
