Description

Good Morning ! If this implementation is carried out. Redmine reaches the highest level that exists in terms of dynamic publishing. Associate the active value of the items in the list with a specific task of a given project or subproject. This functionality is extremely important.

In this way I would have a list with attributes specific to a list for a given project. And other elements of the list suitable for another project associated with the tasks.

Redmine is the best process customization tool, in addition to its project management function that I have seen in my entire professional life.
