Description

I'd really like to be able to close a project, e.g. if I've got a project for a client I might want to close it 30 days after launch so that it no longer clutters up the main UI (see my other idea for the expanded projects menu). Closed projects would not show up on the various projects lists (My Projects, etc) but maybe have either an option on the main projects page to show the closed projects or an option to display them either inline or below the active ones.
