Redmine - Defect #38064

Avoid exception when adding a project without any givable roles defined

Description

Project.default_member_role might return nil if there is no default member role and no givable role at all.

In the safe_attribute definition of Project#enabled_module_names, we use the method's return value without checking this. The attached patch fixes this by using the safe navigation operator there (introduced in Ruby 2.3.0) and denying changing of the modules if the user is not an admin.
