Description  This patch adds HTML comments to the rendered output indicating where each template begins and ends in development and test mode.  This feature has been added since rails 6.1.  see .annotate_template_file_names annotates HTML output with template names #38848 Add the configuration option for annotating templates with file names to the generated app #39204

Thank you for posting the patch. Enabling the feature in development mode is very useful. However, I think enabling the feature by default only in development mode is better because it breaks existing tests.
