Sending emails to gmail accounts was indeed not working since redmine.org moved to a new host.
Thanks for reporting the problem, it has just been fixed.

(Likely) after this change, notification mails seem to be fully broken for me right now (to a non-gmail-provider). I have not received any notifications yesterday, which I would have expected to receive.

Unfortunately, I do not have access to the mail server logs (which makes it hard to debug for me), but maybe you can further check this?

(I have just received a notification for this issue at least. Thank you if you have fixed something already!)
