Description

Unlike feature 993, this is a request to have Documents tied to the Redmine concept of Versions. For example, if I have a bunch of bugs or features being fixed in the next version, let's say I have Versions 1.0 and 2.0 and 3.0, then I'd like to be able to tie product documentation to those versions (just like operating systems do) for projects. So the next release would have a version tied to documents or wiki, and also the ability to clone those docs or wiki related to the project to the next version (and then a person can modify the necessary changes).

Apologies, meant feature 991, not 993.
