Description

This patch enables GitHub Actions to run on stable branches, executing builds for testing and linting.

While GitHub Actions are currently executed for the master branch, they are not yet enabled for stable branches. In particular, running a complete build, including rubocop and stylelint, for the latest stable branch (6.0-stable) should help prevent mistakes like those in #42088 and contribute to the overall quality of Redmine.

This patch ensures that necessary builds are executed and succeed for the 6.0, 5.1, and 5.0 stable branches.

- Add GitHub Actions workflows for linting and testing
- Backport necessary fixes from trunk to ensure linting and testing succeed

The details of the builds for each branch are as follows:

Branch	[linters] Rubocop	[linters] Stylelint	[linters] Audit	[tests] Ruby versions
6.0-stable	Yes	Yes	Yes	3.1, 3.2, 3.3
5.1-stable	Yes	Yes	No	3.0, 3.1, 3.2
5.0-stable	Yes	Yes	No	3.0, 3.1

The patches are separated by branch:

- Patches for the 6.0-stable branch: 000x-6.0-stable-*.patch
- Patches for the 5.1-stable branch: 000x-5.1-stable-*.patch
- Patches for the 5.0-stable branch: 000x-5.0-stable-*.patch

I have confirmed that the builds succeed on each branch.

Additionally, by using the GitHub Actions build results, it will be possible to create a simple build status display like the following.

Displaying this on prominent pages like the top page of the redmine.org Overview or the Continuous integration page will make it easy for anyone to track the build status.

Merged to 6.0-stable and 5.1-stable branches, 5.0-stable receives only security fixes.

Remove from a version because it will be released as part of #30069.
