Description

Previously, quoted messages displayed the author name as plain text.

This patch modifies the quoting behavior to prepend "@" to the author's login name. As a result, the author is automatically mentioned in the quote.

History

#1 - 2025-04-10 10:35 - Anonymous

The quoting behavior has been updated to prepend "@" to the quoted author's login name, automatically mentioning them in the reply. This change improves visibility and engagement by directly notifying the original author when their message is quoted, fostering better communication and context within the platform.

Thank you for providing such a clear explanation.
Due to the patch file being encoded in UTF-16 LE, I have converted it to UTF-8. Sorry.
