Description
"Also available in" links have icon only for Atom. Instead of adding icons for other links (PDF, CSV, HTML, TXT) as proposed in #14451 and #21257 , my proposal is to drop the icon for Atom.

In addition to removing the Atom icon, how about moving the Atom link to the end of the "Also available in:" list?

In typical usage, users are far more likely to click CSV or PDF links than the Atom link. Atom feeds are usually accessed only when setting up a feed reader or similar client, which happens infrequently.

Moreover, feed readers themselves are not as commonly used today as they used to be. So, placing the Atom link at the end might better reflect its lower relevance for most users.

I don't have a strong preference about his, it is fine for me regardless the order. Do you want to handle both changes?
