Can not reproduce. Please read SubmittingBugs, I need your stack trace.

#2 - 2009-12-08 22:15 - Rahul Vaidya

Sorry about that.

Using SQLite.

Stack trace:

```
ArgumentError (wrong number of arguments (6 for 5)):
app/models/query.rb:379:in `sql_for_field'
app/models/query.rb:379:in `statement'

This trace shows that you're not using latest trunk. Please re-read SubmittingBugs.

I am using r3137 and am experiencing this problem (with same stack trace).

Windows 2003 Server x64
Ruby 1.8.6
Rails 2.3.4
Running on Mongrel
I cannot run script/about, I do not have MySQL installed and I get errors about missing libmysql.dll

All the steps in <http://www.redmine.org/wiki/redmine/RedmineUpgrade> have been followed (I have an upgrade script that does everything).

There's no call to Query#sql_for_field at <source:/trunk/app/models/query.rb@3137#L379>.

How bizarre...

I deleted all the Ruby source files in the app folder and restored from SVN (svn update never gave any sort of error message) and things seem to work now.

Sorry for all the trouble.

OK, thanks.
