Description

See attached screenshot.

When defining a group as member of a project, this is the result :

- group is displayed after its members. So you don't really understand at first sight that User Misc is here because he's in A Team
- you don't know why you cannot delete the user

It could be clearer with appropriate UI changes.

- Category changed from Groups to UI

What would you propose for the UI?

#2 - 2010-09-05 23:37 - Jean-Baptiste Barth

A tree like in project/subprojects list in Admin section. Group at the top, arrows and/or a padding-left. Maybe frame user list so it's clear they are members of the group. I'll propose something soon.
