Description I have a few ideas to enhance the edit tracker view.  <h3>Indicate archived projects</h3> The edit tracker view shows the projects where the tracker is in use and includes archived projects, which it should, but it doesn't indicate the archived projects. Option 1 <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Make the active project names links to the project</li><li>2. Leave the archived project names black w/o link</li></ol> Example: Project 1 Project 2 Option 2 <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Add a "View" link at the end of each project name</li><li>2. Add an "Archived" label at the end of each archived project name</li></ol> Example: Project 1 View Project 2 Archived Italicizing the archived project names would work too. <h3>Indicate issues in each project</h3> Another idea is to indicate the number of issues in each project with the selected tracker. This could be done in a similar format as on the Project overview. (20 open / 500) or (500 issues) This issue total could also function as a link to the project issue view filtered to the tracker being edited. Example: Project 1 (20 open / 500) Project 2 (500 issues) Archived This is quite useful when you are not a member in every project (as I'd expect most administrators are). These changes would make it much easier to determine the usage of a tracker and would greatly assist when attempting to delete a tracker as I was doing when I came up with these ideas.

I'm wondering if the archived projects could be removed from the view. Does it make sense to edit them if they are archived?
