Description
It would be useful to have the ability to specify a paragraph or two of text to display at the top of the New Issue screen, configurable per project. I have been having people use the bug tracking system for things that I do not wish to use it for (support-type questions that should use a forum or mailing list), and I want to be able to put text right there to explain what to use the issue system for.

+1. This should be per project per Tracker - settable in the Project settings page.

This can be a subset of #4015

Also, there is a relation with #2568 which talks about contextual documentation. Don't know which way this issue should be taken up.
